Higher Education at SILJC

Situation

Our youth need every opportunity to attend college or some type of higher education. Only about 40% of Idaho's high school graduates go on to college.

Response

Southern Idaho Livestock Judging Camp (SILJC) offers youth and adults to learn from top livestock judging coaches and teams to properly evaluate livestock and increase oral reasons skills.

2007 Program Outcomes

78% of participants stated that they learned more about college, while 100% surveyed stated they wanted to attend college. Results showed that 79% of those participating were at a judging camp for their first time, while 11% gave their first set of oral reasons. Results also showed that 18% were in the advanced reasons category.

What participants like most about camp included.

The Camp

Camp focuses on livestock evaluation with an emphasis on oral reasons. Livestock classes to be offered will include Market and Breeding Beef, Sheep and Swine. Classes are sponsored by Idaho's livestock breeders. New this year is the Novice & Advanced sessions being planned. Primary target for the camp is youth ages 13-18. The camp cost is $75, including adults ($65) that wish to participate, this covers 4 meals, one banquet dinner, judging manual and judging notebook.

Expenses

We anticipate 110 people participating this year. Expense for the camp include 5 meals, 1 banquet meal, judging curriculum and judging notebooks. Other expenses include room and meals for instructors.

The we are seeking sponsors for the Banquet ($2750) and the Judging Notebooks ($1320)
